CONGRATULATIONS
SAYLOR CEMENT KILNS!
Pennsylvania At Risk Resource (2005)
Receives
Save America's Treasures Grant Award

Saylor Cement Kilns
Coplay, Lehigh County (Pennsylvania At Risk 2005)

We are pleased to announce that the Saylor Cement Kilns Preservation Society recently received a matching grant award of $200,000 from the Save

America's Treasures program for the conservation of the historic cement kilns in Coplay. The National Park Service recognizes the property's significance as the site where Portland cement was first manufactured, and consequently supports its preservation. Lehigh County owns the kilns, which are located in a public park, but relies on the fundraising efforts of the Preservation Society to help pay for the maintenance of these large brick structures. Erin Hammerstedt, Partners in the Field representative for Preservation Pennsylvania, has been working with the Preservation Society and the County to formulate a preservation plan for the kilns so that they can continue to be experienced by and interpreted to the public.
Emphasis will now be on raising funds necessary to match the Save America's Treasures grant, so that this endangered historic property can be saved.

Society, including how to donate to the organization, may be

Last month, Preservation Pennsylvania announced its annual Pennsylvania At Risk list.

Eleven Commonwealth resources are highlighted in the 2010 listing; in-depth information about each resource is featured in the Preserving Pennsylvania: Pennsylvania At Risk 2010 publication, which may be viewed here.

ADVOCACY UPDATE!
Gettysburg Casino Decision Still Delayed

The Pennsylvania Gaming Control Board (PGCB) announced on January 25th that it will NOT award the remaining Category 3 Resort license at its regularly scheduled January 26th meeting. The PGCB also said that it has not reached a final decision regarding the license. The Board will meet again on Thursday, February 10th.

Need a Preservation Speaker?
Partners in the Field Representatives
Accepting Invitations Through June 30, 2011

Partners in the Field representatives, Dave Kimmerly and Erin Hammerstedt are now accepting invitations to speak at organizational meetings through June 30, 2011.

Practiced speakers and workshop leaders, Dave and Erin enjoy addressing a variety of historic preservation-related topics, including preservation basics, and facilitating question and answer sessions. Historic districts, planning commissions, historical societies, HARBs, heritage areas, and Main Street organizations are especially encouraged to contact Pennsylvania's only Partners in the Field representatives.

Erin Hammerstedt

In the course of their regular duties, both Dave and Erin travel to communities across the Commonwealth offering on-site preservation guidance and advice. In addition, their expertise is available to all residents of Pennsylvania at no charge.

But their individual calendars are booking up quickly! So if your organization is interested in booking Dave or Erin as a featured speaker, please follow the "contact" links on the left.

A joint program with the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Partners in the Field is a matching grant program designed to put additional professional preservationists in the communities where they are most needed.
